Activities for Future City Builders

BUILD A BLOCK

Public works crews use GIS* to map out everything in a city, like roads, pipes, parks, and buildings. In this game, pretend the dots are points on a city map. Every time you complete a square, you're claiming a "city block"!

Take turns connecting dots. When you finish a square, write your initials inside.
The person with the most blocks at the end wins!

*GIS stands for Geographic Information Systems. It's like a super smart map that helps cities keep track of everything from water pipes to street signs. Public works crews use GIS to plan, fix, and build things all over town!

UTILITIES

HELP THE WORKERS SAVE THE DAY!

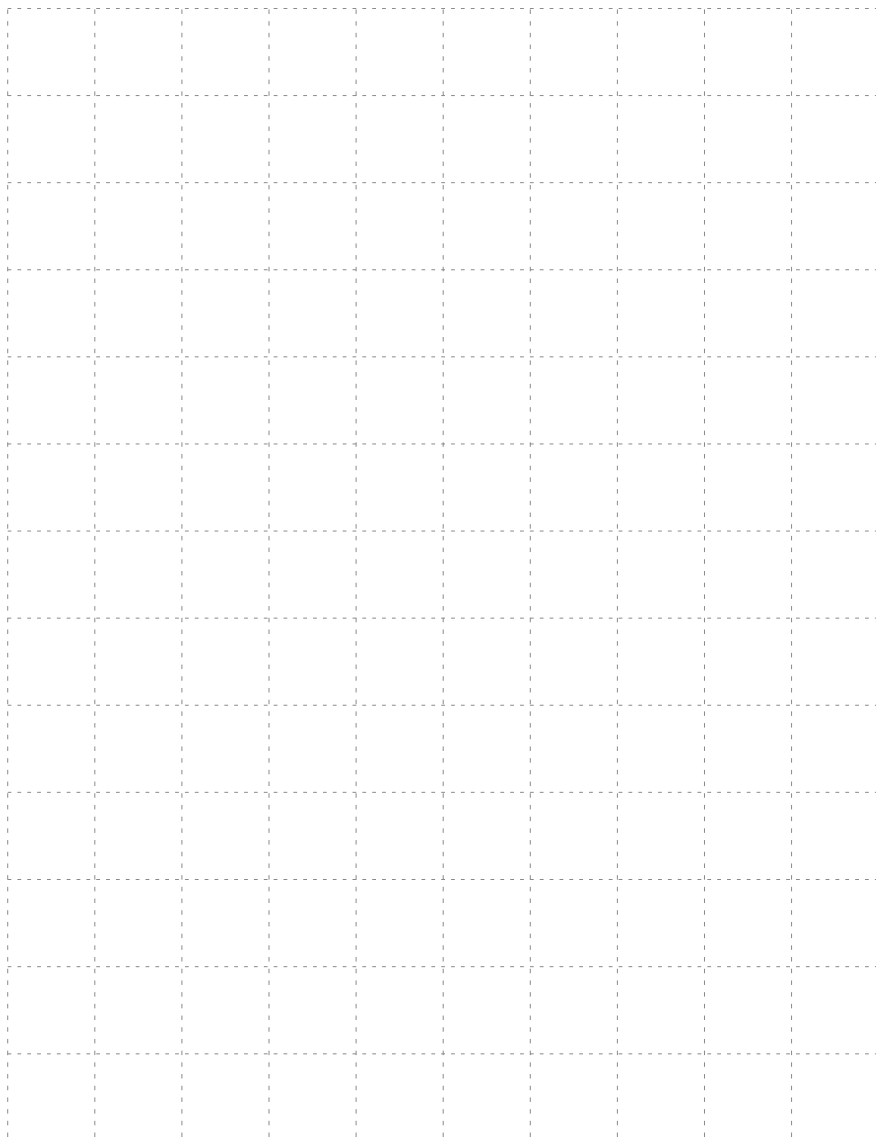

Oh no! There's a broken pipe in the city. The public works crew needs your help to find the fastest way through the maze and get to the repair site. Grab your pencil and guide them to the leak before it causes a big mess!

CREATE YOUR OWN CITY

Imagine you're building a brand-new city. Use the space below to draw a bird's-eye view (from above) of your city! Add roads, rivers, buildings, parks, maybe a public works garage, and anything else you want. Be sure to label your buildings and places so everyone knows what they are. Make it realistic or totally wild. Your map, your rules!
